

Sheila R. Alber-Morgan, Ph.D., BCBA, is a Professor of Special Education in the College of Education and Human Ecology at The Ohio State University. She has authored of more than 70 peer-reviewed research and practitioner articles, book chapters, textbook ancillaries, and the book, Using RTI to Teach Literacy to Diverse Learners, K-8: Strategies for the Inclusive Classroom. She has also co-authored the 11th Edition of Exceptional Children with William Heward and Moira Konrad. Dr. Alber-Morgan was a teacher for seven years in inclusive classrooms in both urban and rural South Carolina. Her research has focused on examining the effects of literacy interventions on the learning outcomes of elementary and secondary students with and without disabilities. Additionally, her research incorporates strategies for programming for generalization and maintenance of academic, functional, and social skills. Almost all of her published research has been designed and implemented in collaboration with classroom teachers.

